USEFUL PROPERTIES

YARWOOD'S
Patent Washing Machine.

THIS highly useful Machine is found by experience to excel any hitherto in use. It will wash as many cloths (by the assistance of one person) in an hour as can be washed in a whole day, without the possibility of injuring, fretting or tearing the most delicate article, and with less than half the quantity of soap. It occupies very little more space than the common wash-tub, and with the least care will not create any slop or wet—the construction is very simple and attended with little expense. A further description of its qualities is now deemed unnecessary, as it is presumed none will purchase without examining it.

We the subscribers do hereby certify that we have found, on trial, the above named Machine to answer fully the above description. Given under our hands this 5th day of May, A. D. 1809.

TO THE MAY FLY.

Thou little volatile unmeaning thing,
Frail tenant of a day, thou helpless sport
Of every breathing Zephyr, where hast fled,
With the vast myriads which this morn I saw Swarming in sun and hiding half his beams?
Has no one lagged behind to point me out Your fav'rite haunts? I love to see ye sport.
At eve I sought ye in the woodbine bowers—
Upon the shady wall—the willow branch—
The fragrant rose and every cool recess;
But willow branch, or wall, or fragrant rose,
Or woodbine bower; or any cool recess,
Of all your legions not a vestige show'd!
Art thou annihilated? Reason avers There's no such thing on earth;—reason in turn Does stand admiring, that thy beautiful frame

With so much taste and delicacy form'd,
Was made to dazzle but a single day!—
And yet it must be so—thou hast been sent Like a fleet courier, on hasty business,
And art returned beyond the bourne of ages!
Then soon the tide of wonder feels a stop,
And with the immortal secret ebbs away;
I've learn'd your rendezvous; death's thousand doors

For all that live are open:—ye who scap'd
The pool, the cobweb and the pelting shower,
The catering Swallow and the fleet-wing'd Marten,

Have in the rear found dangers manifold
To sweep ye clean away.—I see thou art
The sad epitome of human life,
With all its snares and fleeting vanities;
Which tho' spun out till heart and flesh shall faint,

Yet at the goal arrived, the strongest tenure Appears as frail and quite as short as thine!
I saw my ancient grandsire full of days,
Anxiously cast a retrospective eye On four-score summers, and exclaim "my hours

How strangely they have fled—Time's angels have fled by me like a morning dream, E'er yet one solitary, temporal project Has reached complete fruition! Now the world

Seems fast receding, and this house of clay Totters apace! Had I no treasure now Where thieves can steal not, and moth not corrupt,

Then I had lived in vain; for what's the sum Of every earthly joy, but just to taste.
And have it snatch'd away? Or life itself,
But to awake—to move—and sleep again."

LEANDER.

NELLY HAGAN.

A DIBCE, FROM THE IRISH—BY MOORE.
Tune—"Twas when the seas were roaring."

In Ballyricknackelly,
By Lagan's limpid stream,
Once flourished blue eye'd Nelly,
Each rural Poet's theme.

Full many a rich young farmer
Her hand in wedlock sought;
But all in vain—the charmer
By wealth could near be bought.

At length an artful rover,
From Mona's distant isle,
Addressed her as a lover,
And did her heart beguile.

And soon the favour'd stranger Prevail'd on her to fly
With him; and brave the danger Of Winter's stormy sky.

She left her tender mother,
The frowning sea to pass,
She left her loving brother,
And hurried to Araglass.

A vessel there was ready,
To waft the lovers o'er,
The wind blew strong, but steady,
For Mona's distant shore.

But ere half channel over,
A squall, with furious sweep, Whelm'd vessel, maid and lover,
Beneath the raging deep.

Ye gentle nymphs of Lagan,
That read this rueful strain,
Lament fair Nelly Hagan,
Who perish'd in the main.

And when designing strangers,
To leave fond parents press,
Reflect on your own dangers,
As well as their distress.

WASHINGTON, May 23.
Message to Congress.

This day, at 12 o'clock, the President of the U. States communicated to both houses of Congress the following

MESSAGE:

*Fellow-Citizens of the Senate,
And of the House of Representatives,*

ON this first occasion of meeting you, it affords me much satisfaction to be able to communicate the commencement of a favorable change in our foreign relations; the critical state of which induced a session of Congress at this early period.

In consequence of the provisions of the act interdicting commercial intercourse with Great Britain and France, our ministers at London and Paris were, without delay, instructed, to let it be understood by the French and British governments, that the authority vested in the executive to renew commercial intercourse with their respective nations, would be exercised by the case specified in that act.

Soon after these instructions were dispatched, it was found that the British government, anticipating, from early proceedings of Congress at their last session, the state of our laws which has had the effect of placing the two belligerent powers on a footing of equal restrictions, and relying on the conciliatory disposition of the United States, had transmitted to their legation here, provisional instructions not only to offer satisfaction for the attack on the frigate Chesapeake, and to make known the determination of his Britannic majesty, to send an envoy extraordinary with powers to conclude a treaty on all points between the two countries; but moreover, to signify his willingness, in the mean time, to withdraw his orders in council in the persuasion that the intercourse with Great Britain, would be renewed on the part of the United States.

These steps of the British government led to the correspondence and the proclamation now laid before you, by virtue of which the commerce between the two countries will be renewable after the 10th of June next.

Whilst I take pleasure in doing justice to the councils of his Britannic majesty, which no longer adhering to the policy which made an abandonment by France of her decrees a pre-requisite to a revocation of the British orders have substituted the amicable course which has issued thus happily; I cannot do on the part of the U. States, embracing a like restoration of the suspended commerce, as a proof of the spirit of accommodation which has at no time been intermitted; and to the result which now calls for our congratulations, as corroborating the principles by which the public councils have been guided during a period of the most trying embarrasments.

The discontinuance of the British orders as they respect the U. S. having been thus arranged, a communication of the event has been forwarded in one of our public vessels to our minister plenipotentiary at Paris, with instructions to avail himself of the important addition thereby made to the considerations which press on the justice of the French government, a revocation of its decrees, or such a modification of them, as that they shall cease to violate the neutral commerce of the U. States.

The works of defence for our seaport towns and harbours, have proceeded with as much activity, as the season of the year and other circumstances would admit. It is necessary, however, to state, that the appropriations hitherto made being found to be deficient, a further provision will claim the early attention of congress.

The whole of the eight per cent stock remaining due by the United States, amounting to five millions three hundred thousand dollars, had been reimbursed on the last day of the year 1808. And on the first day of April last, the sum in the treasury exceeded nine and a half millions of dollars. This, together with the receipts of the current year on account of former revenue bonds, will probably be nearly, if not altogether sufficient to defray the expenses of the year.
But the suspension of exports, and the consequent decrease of importations during the last twelve months, will necessarily cause a great diminution in the receipts of the year 1810. After that year, should our foreign relations be undisturbed, the revenue will again be more than commensurate to all the expenditures.

The revision of our commercial laws, proper to adapt them to the arrangement which has taken place with Great Britain, will doubtless engage the early attention of Congress. It will be worthy, at the same time, of their just and provident care, to make such further alterations in the laws, as will more especially protect and foster the several branches of manufacture, which have been recently instituted, or extended by the laudable exertions of our citizens.

Under the existing aspect of our affairs, I have thought it not inconsistent with a just precaution, to have the gun boats, with the exception of those at New Orleans, placed in a situation incurring no expence beyond that requisite for their preservation, and convenience for future service; and to have the crews of those at New Orleans, reduced to the number required for their navigation and safety.

I have thought, also, that our citizens detached in quotas of militia amounting to one hundred thousand, under the act of March, 1808, might not improperly be relieved from the state in which they were held for immediate service. A discharge of them has been accordingly directed.

The progress made in raising & organizing the additional military force, for which provision was made by the act of April, 1808, together with the disposition of the troops, will appear by a report which the secretary of war is preparing, and which will be laid before you.

Of the additional frigates required by an act of last session, to be fitted for actual service, two are in readiness, one nearly so; and the fourth is expected to be ready in the month of July. A report which the secretary of the navy is preparing on the subject, to be laid before Congress, will shew at the same time the progress made in officering and manning these ships. It will shew also, the degree in which the provisions of the act relating to the other public armed ships, have been carried into execution.

It will rest with the judgment of Congress to decide how far the change in our external prospects may authorize any modification of the laws, relating to the army and navy establishments.

Aware of the inconveniences of a protracted session at the present season of the year, I forbear to call the attention of the legislature to any matters not particularly urgent.
It remains therefore only to assure you of the fidelity and alacrity, with which I shall cooperate for the welfare and happiness of our country; and to pray that it may experience a continuance of the Divine Blessings, by which it has been so signally favored.

BY THE LAST MAIL.

PHILADELPHIA, May 22.

By the brig Cerberus, from Cadiz, we learn the following American vessels were seized at Cadiz, by Mr. R. S. Hackley, acting consul, and to be sent home for trial on the charge of having evaded the embargo. The Accusant of New Bedford, Virginia, of New York, Franklin of New York. This measure is generally attributed at Cadiz, to the influence over Mr. H. of the charge de affairs, Mr. Erving, whose conduct in this unlawful proceeding, as well as other respects is much blamed there, particularly for the business of Murat's dispatches. In consequence of this affair remaining unnoticed by our government, we have suffered much in the esteem of the Spaniards, and many of our citizens in their interests; the neglect of restoring the detained vessels till very late and the procrastination of payment for their cargoes, which is not yet accomplished, are wholly attributable to this circumstance. Indeed the liberation of the vessels is due to the influence of the marquis de Yrujo whose attachment to the citizens of the U. S. was manifested on this occasion.

Very little information that could be relied on was received from the army, the government taking the greatest care to prevent the circulation of intelligence unfavorable to the cause of Spain. Sufficient however transpired from time to time, to cause a general belief that their affairs were in the most desperate situation. It was certain that the army of Lamartine, had been defeated and completely ruined, in a series of engagements near Valde Penas, about the end of March. It was also certain, about the same time, that of Estre madura, under Cuesta had had some very severe encounters, in one of which it suffered greatly and was understood to have behaved gallantly. The result was not precisely known, some accounts saying it was completely defeated and dispersed, while others asserted it to have suffered so much that the General intended giving another battle in the hope of saving Seville. It would not however be doubted that the vicars had entered the province of Andalusia after the battle, and it seemed certain that they had arrived within from 15 to 20 leagues of Seville. No apprehensions were entertained for Cadiz that place being remarkably strong; but it was the almost universal opinion no other place in the kingdom or in Portugal could long resist. From the latter the last accounts left a French army of 16000 at Brage—and the Portuguese ability were concerned, to deliver the country to the French; in consequence of which general Friere and two of his aids had been murdered by his soldiers. The Marquis de Yrujo had been appointed by the junta minister to Brazil and was sail for that country in a few weeks.

In addition to the above we are informed that many of the French confined in Cadiz, died by the rigor of their imprisonment; these alive including the soldiers taken in the field, the French merchants and French inhabitants of the town of Cadiz and others who had been taken up on suspicion of being inimical to the Spanish cause, were shipped off for Minorca.

There was little or nothing said, as our informants could learn, of any movements of the French army along the Spanish coast of the Mediterranean. It was said at Cadiz, that the whole French army in Spain, did not consist of more than one hundred and twenty or thirty thousand men, for their operation in Spain. Romana it was understood was in the mountains between Andalusia and Galicia, but had done nothing of great note, not being in so great force as could be wished. In confirmation of the reports that England and Russia had adjusted their differences, it was said at Cadiz, that orders were received by the fleet at Lisbon, to treat the Spanish flag with all the respect due a friendly power.

Extract of a letter from Cadiz, dated 3d April, 1809.

Ships are in great demand; mostly all the vessels in port, are taken up in the transport of the French prisoners to the island of Minorca; the Junta allows a ship or will allow for a ship of 200 tons, for a trip, with a convoy of three or four ships of the line and 4 or 5 frigates or ships of war, with insuring the ship. The French army is stationed at Matagorda; the Spanish and British combined are at Cadiz; a great battle was fought a few days since, the particulars it is impossible to ascertain, although the Spaniards report it favorable to themselves—they appear in good spirits here, but any thing unfavorable is not known publicly, but men of general information appear at times alarmed. It is generally reported that the German powers have declared war against Bonaparte. The Moors have offered to the service of Ferdinand the 7th, 50,000 troops completely equipped. A great revolution has taken place among the Portuguese, many of their leading characters have been discovered corresponding with Bonaparte, they have been generally killed—the government is under a British general, of their own choice. Many of the confidential Spanish officers have gone to Madrid, and joined the French army. I fear much the seed of treachery it too much sown and cherished for the patriots to prosper without something unforeseen turns up.

BALTIMORE, May 23.

Arrived, schooner Amiable, Fitch, 16 days from Carthage, (Spanish Maine). Left there, 7th inst. schooner Hetty, Dawson, of Baltimore, the only American vessel there. Captain F. brought several letters and a memorial from the Americans taken prisoners in Miranda's expedition—he thinks that if government interfered they would be liberated. Yesterday at 2 P. M. two large thips, apparently men of war, gave chase, one of them came within gunshot, and began to fire. The light house then about two miles distant, being so close to the land and unapprized if war was declared, we made every sail we could. The ship we were informed after by the pilot, was the British frigate Melampus, continued to keep a very brisk fire, several shots passed over and some fell near us, and others on the beach of the Cape; by this time we had got one mile within the Light-house. Perceiving he could not come up with us, he fired a broadside and made sail off—all this time we had American colors flying.

Also, brig Blanchy, Richardson 13 days from Havana. Left there 9th inst. brig Eliza, Gray, for New-York, in 6 days; ship Grand Seigneur, for Baltimore, in 3 weeks; and a number of others.

Also, schooner Fame, Peterson 16 days from St. Jago. Sailed 8th inst. in co. with schooner Nancy White, Murphy, of Baltimore, for Savannah with passengers—Left about 60 sail of Americans, among which were schooners Swift, Watt; Greyhound, Holmes; Two Margarets, Lewis, & Herald, Conklin, of Baltimore discharging. In Crooked Island passage was boarded by an English armed brig and treated politely. Spoke a schooner from Baracoa, for Newburyport off Castle Island; out one day.

Also, Spanish schooner Resolution, Funt, 22 days from St. Jago, ballast, and 130 passengers the master.

American prisoners in South America.

Captain Fitch, of the schr. Amiable, from Carthage in South America, informs that while at that place he visited the American prisoners, who were captured in the expedition of Miranda, and found them in the most wretched condition; part in double-irons and close confinement, and the rest at hard labour on the public works, chained two and two. They informed capt. Fitch they had received a very handsome donation from the inhabitants of Kingston, Jam. which proved a very salutary relief. Also, that those who were British born subjects, from the interference of the government of Jamaica, had been taken out of irons; and would shortly be restored to liberty. We understand that captain Fitch has brought a memorial from those unfortunate and deluded men to the government of the U. S. praying for their interference and protection. [Balt. North American.]

CONGRESS.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

TUESDAY, May 23.

[Taken for the Alexandria Gazette.]

A variety of opinions are expressed of the tenure of the session, 4, 6 and 8 weeks mentioned, it is more than probable it will not be less than 2 months; the union of each is the whole; and an action of an individual puts the whole in motion, hence the inference where so many parts exist, and when each may occupy the body 1, 2, or 3 weeks or a single proposition, that many important subjects will come under the deliberations of Congress, consuming, to their natural ratio of importance an extension of time. On this the President's communication may probably relieve anxiety; certain it is, already has the subject of taxation on British imports been agitated, in private, which, when introduced from the forum, will doubtless produce a variety of debate and devertisement of opinion; a subject which in its magnitude of interest should yield to none beside. Though none of those matters of importance may recur, yet if the house employ themselves three or four hours, as they have done to-day, on a motion which should be decided in an instant, how long they may continue an almanac maker must calculate; such consumption of time, resembles and is as insipid as the punishment they have in houses of correction, making the patient knock one block against another block, purely for the purpose of knocking.

The house formed session at 10, and the journal of the preceding day being read

Mr. Randolph. It is with some degree of surprise that I read in the journal a statement of our proceedings; I know it has been the fashion for the journals to go under a transmutation in the clerk's office, and wish to know whether the volume of trash we have before us shall supercede a clear, and plain statement of facts; shall we have to recur to the Nation Intelligencer or some other paper for a journal of proceedings, when we should have a legitimate organ within ourselves; an important fact has been totally neglected in the journal of yesterday; an important fact, because we have been in love so much with precedent, the neglect of a ballot made in the first instance yesterday, for altho' it might appear clear to some that there was an election by a legal majority; yet to other some that it was an election by a minority. I therefore move

That the clerk be instructed to make the journal of yesterday a clear and correct record.

Which being seconded, it was withdrawn, and the following substituted (after the word ballot insert on the journal) the tellers reported that the whole number of votes were 120, of which Mr. Varnum had 60, Macon 36, Pitkin 20, Nelson 1, Goldsborough 1, and 2 blank votes:

On motion of Mr. Randolph the house proceeded to a second ballot, and it appeared that Mr. Varnum had 65 votes, being a majority of the whole number, Macon 45, Pitkin 6, Howard 1, Nelson 1, Goldsborough 1, &c.

Mr. Jackson had no objection to the motion of the gentleman from Virginia, because it stated a fact, and facts should always be inserted on the journal; the result in the presidential election quoted by the gentleman was not an authority from which could be deduced the inference of an illegality in the first ballot.

Mr. Randolph. It is well to understand this question—I did not cite the presidential election as an authority; but to shew that it was no authority to sanction the first ballot: I leave it to your candor, sir, whether you would sit as easy and as honorable in that chair were you advanced to it by a minority, as when you was sitting under a clear and undisputed majority—a majority who would elevate you to the chair under the first ballot may be friends in sentiments, but not in reality—a minority is both: I am not in favor of doing wrong because good may arise out of it.

Mr. Alston had no objection to the motion, because it did not say whether or not the first ballot was illegal, altho' that it was a legal, just and correct election of Speaker, I can never doubt, except I admit that 60 were not a majority of 118 votes, never consenting to a precedent establishing blank votes as legal.

A good deal of interlocutory discussion arose out of the motion, when it was moved that it be postponed.

A message from the president of the U. States being announced.

The message and documents accompanying it (President's proclamation, and Smith and Erskine's correspondence) being read, it was moved that they be referred to a committee of the whole house, and 5000 copies ordered to be printed.

A message from the senate was announced.

The consideration of Mr. Randolph's motion then recurred, and after some time spent thereon it was carried.

Motion carried, that the resolution from the senate, to appoint chaplains, be adopted.

Mr. Alston moved that the house proceed to appoint standing committees, and after some discussion, which principally involved the question, whether the present would be a long session? if so an appointment was necessary; but if it was to be but short, it would be an unnecessary procedure to have committees of post-offices, of public lands, &c; when no business would be transacted by them. The committee of commerce and manufactures was singled as a proper appointment, as they had strict relation with subjects recommended by the President in his message—It was lost.

Credentials of the Virginia delegation was referred to the committee of elections.

Resolved, That the clerk cause each member to be furnished with three daily newspapers, or their amount in other periodical ones. Adjourned.

BE IT KNOWN, That at an election held yesterday, in ward no. 3. for the purpose of choosing a member of the Common Council for said ward, in the room of Adam Lynn, resigned—EDMUND I. LEE was duly elected, as appears from the return of the commissioners appointed to superintend said election, made to me this day.—Given under my hand and seal of office in Alexandria, this 23d day of May, 1809.

WM. HERBERT, Mayor. (ss.)

AN ACT,

To amend an Act entitled an Act directing the manner of auditing the Public Accounts.

BE IT ENACTED by the Common Council of Alexandria in Council assembled, That from and after the passing of this act, any person elected to the office of Clerk to Council and Auditor of Public Accounts, shall within ten days after his election, give bond with such security as in the opinion of the President of Council shall be sufficient, in the sum of three thousand dollars, for the faithful discharge of his duties in the said offices; and that until such bond be given, no salary shall attach to either of the offices of Clerk or Auditor.

And be it further enacted, That all laws coming within the purview hereof, be and are hereby repealed.

Passed in Common Council, May 10th, 1809.

HUGH SMITH, President of the Common Council.

Approved, WILLIAM HERBERT, Mayor.

Doctor I. J. Comyn,

A professional DENTIST—of Baltimore,

RESPECTFULLY acquaints the LADIES and GENTLEMEN of Alexandria, that he intends to practice in this place for a few days, in all the various branches of his profession. No genteel person of either sex, can give or receive pleasure or comfort, by teeth coated with tart or decayed gums, or fetid breath. His method of cleaning the teeth will be found both easy and efficacious, as he has been in Baltimore and elsewhere. Without giving pain to the enamel, he removes the tartar, &c. when the teeth will assume a beautiful appearance the gums adhering to the teeth; but if the state of the gums require it, doctor C. will give to the person an antiseptic lotion of chemical preparation, which gained the applause of hundreds both in Europe and America. It is pleasant, innocent, and effectual, in smoothing and whitening the teeth and curing the gums, rendering them red and firm, preventing the decay of the teeth and sweetening the breath. Doctor C. fits artificial teeth from one to an entire set, with such nicety, as to answer the useful purposes of nature, and of so natural an appearance that it is impossible to distinguish them from real ones. Dr. C. flatters himself from his being regularly bred to the practice of physick, as well as to the Dentist Business, and his long experience on the continent of Europe (France and Spain) to give to all those who favour him with their commands, every possible satisfaction.

RAN AWAY, from the subscribers, two Slaves, named BILLY and NELLY.—Billy is a mulatto man, and sometimes calls himself WILLIAM JORDAN AUGUSTUS—his color nearly as light and approaches that of a white man, his hair is straight and he generally wears it platted and turned up behind with a comb—his visage is remarkably thin and his cheek bones high—he has been brought up in the house and is a very good dining-room servant, is about 5 feet 10 or 11 inches high, very straight built, his constitution is not very strong and he is subject to indisposition—he is about 30 years of age.

NELLY is tall and rather inclined towards corpulency, a tawney color and about forty-five years of age.

They went off together as man and wife, but it is very probable Billy will attempt to pass as a white man and will endeavor to sell Nelly as his slave.

The above reward will be paid for the apprehension and securing of the said Slaves, if taken up on the north side of the river Potomac, and information given thereof to their respective proprietors. HAMILTON'S ELIXIR,

FOR COUGHS.

THE increasing reputation of Hamilton's Elixir (which during the last nine years has become celebrated throughout the U. States,) warrants the assertion that it is the best remedy now in use for colds, obstinate coughs, asthma, and approaching consumptions. Experience has taught thousands, that the common opiates and balsamics, as they are called, finally aggravate every disorder of the breast and lungs, in the most distressing symptoms, that they load the stomach and impair the digestion, inflame the whole system increase the difficulty of breathing and excite fever: But the qualities of this valuable discovery are evinced by perfectly opposite effects.

A single trial will prove that it restores the determination of the fluids to the surface of the body, and brings on the common healthful perspiration; that it dislodges and evacuates the tough viscid phlegm or mucus, strengthens the weakened vessels of the lungs sheathes the acrimonious liquor which irritates them, and finally discharges it. Thus striking at the root of the disorder the symptoms are effectually and permanently conquered, the reverse of common medicine which weakens the constitution and gives strength to the disorder, for the sake of moderating for the present some of its painful effects.

To parents who have children afflicted with the whooping cough, this discovery is of the first magnitude, as it affords immediate relief, checks the progress, and in a short time entirely removes the most cruel disorder to which children are liable. The Elixir is perfectly agreeable, and the dose so small, that no difficulty arises in taking it.

Select Recommendations.

Philadelphia, August 9, 1806.

Mrs. H. Lee, widow of Richard Lee, jr.

Being desirous to make public for the good of others the excellent quality of Hamilton's Elixir, prepared by the late Mr. Lee, I have sent you the following account of the benefit I have received from it; which I hope will induce others to give it a trial. In consequence of a bruise on the breast received from a fall, my health grew bad, my breathing became very difficult, and frequently I have had suddenly to rise up in my bed with all the horrors of immediate suffocation. Add to these, a constant pain in my breast, and a cough, a great loss of strength and flesh, and you may conceive that my symptoms evidently indicated an approaching consumption.—The advice of a most eminent physician was resorted to, and afterwards a second was called in, but without giving me any relief. Another physician, who knew me and the circumstances of my case, advised me to give Hamilton's Elixir a trial, saying, he had used it in his practice, and always found it do much good. A bottle was procured from Mr. Birch's and I found relief before I had taken half of it. I continued to use it, and was soon strong enough to attend to business. On taking cold some of my former symptoms return, but are always removed by a dose or two of the Elixir.

GEO. BENNER, junior,

No. 11, Budd-street, Philadelphia.

Mr. Charles Myers, Hamstead-Hill, near Baltimore, had been a long time dangerously indisposed, and was reduced to the lowest state of weakness, inasmuch that his recovery appeared extremely doubtful. His complaints which seemed to be affections of the breast and lungs, and general debility occasioned thereby, yielded little, but rather progressed under the treatment of several eminent physicians; when by the use of Hamilton's Elixir, his distressing cough was immediately alleviated, and every other symptom perfectly subdued. Four or five bottles entirely removed his complaints and restored him to an excellent state of health and strength, which he has for upwards of a year past, enjoyed without interruption.

From Luther Martin, esq. late attorney general of Maryland.

I comply with your request in stating my opinion of Hamilton's Elixir. It has been used in my family for two or three years past, with uniform success, whenever coughs, colds, or similar complaints have rendered medicine necessary. I have myself found it an excellent and agreeable remedy for a very painful and troublesome affection of the breast, accompanied with soreness, and with obstructed and difficult breathing.

On these accounts I do not hesitate to recommend Hamilton's Elixir as a valuable medicine, and deserving public attention.
